A rendez-vous with the art scene: INNSBRUCK INTERNATIONAL

25 April–3 May 2026 | Opening on: 24 April 2026 | Innsbruck

This contemporary art biennial will be returning to the capital of Tyrol in 2026 under the slogan “Rendez-Vous”, transforming the market square and other venues into places for people to come together and interact with performances, concerts, installations, workshops and talks. Over ten days, INNSBRUCK INTERNATIONAL invites visitors not only to come and see art, but to actively engage with it too. The focus is on the topic of community in a time of change: international artists explore the dynamics of belonging, responsibility and collective action, entering into a dialogue with visitors to examine individual perspectives on social issues – all within the setting of an art festival that stirs emotions, challenges viewpoints and brings people together.

A time capsule in musical form: the 50th Innsbruck Festival of Early Music
24 July–30 August 2026 | Innsbruck
In 2026, the Innsbruck Festival of Early Music celebrates half a century of showcasing the early music era. The centrepiece will be "Il pomo d'oro", the famous Baroque opera by Innsbruck's great court composer, Pietro Antonio Cesti, which will be premiered over two evenings on 7 and 8 August. From 21 August, singers taking part in the Cesti Competition will take to the stage in George Frideric Handel's "Atalanta". Various concerts spanning the full early music repertoire will round off the programme. The festival's former artistic directors – René Jacobs and Alessandro De Marchi – are also returning to Innsbruck this year. Music fans will once again enjoy free entry to some events, such as the anniversary celebration in Innsbruck's Imperial Gardens on 9 August, which offers a whole afternoon of early music. Visitors will also have another chance to spend a summer's evening watching "Ifigenia in Aulide", the opera by Antonio Caldara that was staged at last year's festival – this time shown on screen.

A musical wonderland: Obertöne Kammermusiktage
16–20 September 2026 | Stams Abbey
Baroque concertos, Argentinian tangos and music from the classical and romantic eras – basically, a magical wonderland of chamber music. This is the kind of richly diverse experience that exceptional artists from all over the world will be creating at the Obertöne Kammermusiktage chamber music festival. Every year, music enthusiasts from across Europe flock to Stams to enjoy something truly special together at this event. With varied ensembles, an eclectic range of styles, some familiar faces and some inspiring newcomers, this festival always manages to keep audiences captivated. The Obertöne Sommermusik summer concerts at Stams Abbey on 21 June and 5 July provide a prelude to the main event, featuring the piece described by Mozart as "the best I've ever written in my life" and other music played on violins, piano and wind instruments.
